

Minneapolis leaders to become principals for a day

Written by

Tuesday, 20 April 2010 12:39

MINNEAPOLIS – The Minneapolis Public Schools this week will host nearly 40 local business, community and government leaders at the Principal for a Day event. Participants will shadow principals at individual schools and participate in activities such as reading with students, making morning announcements, meeting with staff members and families and visiting classrooms.

The Principal for a Day event gives local leaders the opportunity to experience the challenges and rewards of educating a diverse urban student population. An afternoon debriefing at the close of the day will provide a forum for participants to share their observations and insights about public education with district leaders.